SEATING POLICY FOR AP UNITED STATES HISTORY EXAM

Testing Window	Exams Administered at Schools in the United States, Canada, Puerto Rico, and the U.S. Virgin Islands	Exams Administered at Schools Outside the United States, Canada, Puerto Rico, and the U.S. Virgin Islands
Regularly Scheduled Exams	Students must be seated no less than 4 feet apart.	Students must be seated no less than 5 feet apart.
Late-Testing Exams	Students must be seated no less than 5 feet apart.

SECTION I: Multiple Choice and Short Answer

› Do not begin the exam instructions below until you have completed the appropriate General Instructions for your group.

Make sure you begin the exam at the designated time. Remember, you must complete a seating chart for this exam. See pages 303–304 for a seating chart template and instructions. See the 2017-18 AP Coordinator’s Manual for exam seating requirements (pages 55–58).

If you are giving the regularly scheduled exam, say:

It is Friday morning, May 11, and you will be taking the AP United States History Exam.

If you are giving the alternate exam for late testing, say:

It is Thursday morning, May 24, and you will be taking the AP United States History Exam.

Look at your exam packet and confirm that the exam title is “AP United States History.” Raise your hand if your exam packet contains any title other than “AP United States History,” and I will help you.

Once you confirm that all students have the correct exams, say:

In a moment, you will open the exam packet. By opening this packet, you agree to all of the AP Program’s policies and procedures outlined in the 2017-18 Bulletin for AP Students and Parents.

You may now remove the shrinkwrap from your exam packet and take out the two Section I booklets. One is labeled Section I: Multiple Choice and Short Answer, and the other is labeled Section I, Part B: Short-Answer Response Booklet. Do not open the short-answer response booklet or the shrinkwrapped Section II materials.

Place the short-answer response booklet and the seals on top of the shrinkwrapped Section II exam materials, and set these aside on your desk. You should now refer only to the Section I: Multiple Choice and Short Answer booklet and your multiple-choice answer sheet. . . .

If students accidentally place the exam label in the space for the number label or vice versa, advise them to leave the labels in place. They should not try to remove the label; their exam can still be processed correctly.

Listen carefully to all my instructions. I will give you time to complete each step. Please look up after completing each step. Raise your hand if you have any questions.

Give students enough time to complete each step. Don't move on until all students are ready.

Read the statements on the front cover of the exam booklet. . . .

Sign your name and write today's date. . . .

Now print your full legal name where indicated. . . .

Now turn to the back cover of your exam booklet and read it completely. . . .

Are there any questions? . . .

You will begin with the multiple-choice part of the exam. You may never discuss the multiple-choice exam content at any time in any form with anyone, including your teacher and other students. If you disclose the multiple-choice exam content through any means, your AP Exam score will be canceled.

Put all pens aside. Does everyone have a pencil? . . .

Provide pencils as necessary.

Then say:

For U.S. History, you will use only the circles marked A–D on the answer sheet. You must complete the answer sheet using a No. 2 pencil only. Mark one response per question. Completely fill in the circles. If you need to erase, do so completely. No credit will be given for anything written in the exam booklet. Scratch paper is not allowed, but you may use the margins or any blank space in the exam booklet for scratch work. Are there any questions? . . .

You have 55 minutes for the multiple-choice questions. If you finish before time is called, you may check your work, but do not go on to Part B until I tell you to do so. Your answer sheets will be collected at the end of the 55 minutes. Open your exam booklet and begin.

Note Start Time _____ . Note Stop Time _____ .

Proctors should circulate throughout the testing room to check that students are marking their answers in pencil on their multiple-choice answer sheets and that they are not looking ahead to Part B or at the other exam booklets. Proctors should stop any students who begin reading the Part B short-answer questions or begin writing in the Part B: Short-Answer Response Booklet (this booklet should remain on top of the Section II shrinkwrapped packet). These students should be redirected back to the multiple-choice questions. If students complete the multiple-choice questions early they may recheck their work on Part A or sit quietly until you give the next instruction.

After 45 minutes, say:

There are 10 minutes remaining.

After 10 minutes, say:

Stop working. Close your exam booklet and put your multiple-choice answer sheet on your desk, faceup. Make sure you have your AP number label and an AP Exam label on page 1 of your answer sheet.

Sit quietly while I collect your answer sheets. Do not reopen the exam booklet until you are told to do so.

Collect a multiple-choice answer sheet from each student. Check that each answer sheet has an AP number label and an AP Exam label.

After all multiple-choice answer sheets have been collected, say:

Now put all pencils aside. Does everyone have a pen with black or dark blue ink? . . .

Get your Student Pack from under your chair, and get the short-answer response booklet that you set aside earlier. Leave the seals and the shrinkwrapped Section II packet to the side. . . .

You should now have in front of you:

- your Student Pack,
- the Section I: Multiple Choice and Short Answer booklet, and
- the short-answer response booklet.

For this part of the exam you need to answer 3 questions—Questions 1 and 2 are mandatory, then you must choose between answering Question 3 or Question 4.

Look at the cover of the short-answer response booklet. Take an AP number label from your Student Pack and place it in the box at the top of the page. Write your AP number if you don't have any labels. . . .

Now complete items 1 through 4 in the Important Identification Information. . . .

Now read the bulleted instructions under "As you complete this short-answer response booklet." . . .

This booklet has lined pages that are labeled with watermarks "Q1," "Q2," and "Q3 or Q4" that correspond to the short-answer questions you will answer. Are there any questions? . . .

Place your Student Pack under your chair. . . .

The short-answer questions are in Part B of the Section I: Multiple Choice and Short Answer booklet. Read the questions carefully. Your responses should be brief; they should not be essays. Longer responses will not necessarily receive higher scores than shorter ones that accomplish all the tasks set by the question.

Remember—Questions 1 and 2 are mandatory, and you should choose to answer either Question 3 or Question 4.

You must write your response to each question on the correct designated page.

You have 40 minutes for this part. Are there any questions before we begin? . . .

Turn to Part B in the exam booklet and make sure you have the short-answer response booklet turned to page Q1. Begin working.

Note Start Time _____ . Note Stop Time _____ .

Check that students are writing their answers in their short-answer response booklet on the lined pages designated for the questions. The booklet is designed to provide sufficient space for responses. However, if a student requires additional space to complete responses, provide lined paper. Instruct those students to write only their AP number, the exam section (Section I, Part B), and the number of the question they are working on, at the top of each extra sheet of paper they use. The shrinkwrapped Section II materials should still be on the side and unopened.

After 30 minutes, say:

There are 10 minutes remaining.

After 10 minutes, say:

Stop working and close both booklets. Check that you filled in the circle indicating Question 3 or Question 4 on the last page of the short-answer response booklet.

If any students used extra paper for a question in the short-answer part, have those students staple the extra sheet(s) to the page corresponding to that specific question in their short-answer response booklets. Complete an Incident Report after the exam (see page 67 of the 2017-18 AP Coordinator's Manual for complete details).

Then say:

I will now collect the short-answer response booklet.

Collect a short-answer response booklet from each student. Check for the following:

- Short-answer response booklet cover: The student placed an AP number label on the shaded box and completed the identification information.
- Short-answer response booklet page “Q3 or Q4”: The student filled in the circle indicating whether they answered question 3 or question 4.

Keep these short-answer response booklets separate from the multiple-choice answer sheets. Before leaving the testing room, you will need to insert all of the short-answer response booklets into the yellow short-answer response booklet return envelope(s). Reminder, if any students used extra sheets of paper, those short-answer response booklets must be returned in the Incident Report return envelope.

Now you must seal your exam booklet using the white seals you set aside earlier. Remove the white seals and press one on each area of your Section I booklet cover marked “PLACE SEAL HERE.” Fold each seal over the back cover. When you have finished, place the booklet on your desk, faceup. I will now collect your exam booklet. . . .

Collect the Section I: Multiple Choice and Short Answer booklet from each student. Check that all booklets are sealed and that students have signed the front cover of the booklets.

There is a 10-minute break between Sections I and II.

When all Section I materials have been collected and accounted for and you are ready for the break, say:

Please listen carefully to these instructions before we take a 10-minute break. All items you placed under your chair at the beginning of this exam must stay there, and you are not permitted to open or access them in any way. Leave your shrinkwrapped Section II packet on your desk during the break. You are not allowed to consult teachers, other students, notes, or textbooks during the break. You may not make phone calls, send text messages, check email, use a social networking site, or access any electronic or communication device. Remember, you may never discuss the multiple-choice exam content with anyone, and if you disclose the content through any means, your AP Exam score will be canceled.

If you are giving the regularly scheduled exam, say:

You may not discuss or share any of the short-answer exam content with anyone unless it is released on the College Board website in about two days.

If you are giving the alternate exam for late testing, say:

In addition, none of the short-answer content in this exam may ever be discussed or shared in any way at any time. If you disclose the short-answer exam content through any means, your AP Exam score will be canceled.

Are there any questions? . . .

You may begin your break. Testing will resume at _____ .

SECTION II: Free Response

Section II (free response) of this exam begins with a mandatory document-based question (Question 1) and then gives students a choice of three essay topics (Question 2, Question 3, or Question 4). A sheet of essay-choice labels is included with the Section II free-response booklets. At the conclusion of the free-response section, you will instruct students to apply the appropriate label where indicated on the front cover of their Section II exam booklet, identifying their essay choice.

After the break, say:

May I have everyone’s attention? Place your Student Pack on your desk. . . .

Remove the shrinkwrap from the Section II packet, but do not open either the Section II exam booklet or the orange Section II: Free Response, Questions and Documents booklet until you are told to do so. Put the essay-choice labels aside. You will need them at the end of Section II. . . .

Read the bulleted statements on the front cover of the exam booklet. Look up when you have finished. . . .

Now take an AP number label from your Student Pack and place it on the shaded box. If you don’t have any AP number labels, write your AP number in the box. . . .

Read the last statement. . . .

Using your pen, print the first, middle, and last initials of your legal name in the boxes and print today’s date where indicated. This constitutes your signature and your agreement to the statements on the front cover. . . .

Turn to the back cover and, using your pen, complete the “Important Identification Information.” . . .

If this is your last AP Exam, you may keep your Student Pack. Place it under your chair for now. Otherwise I will collect all Student Packs.

Read the information on the back cover of the Section II: Free Response booklet. Do not open the booklet until you are told to do so. . . .

Collect the Student Packs.

Then say:

Now, read the information on the front cover of the orange booklet. . . .

Section II is the free-response portion of the exam. You have 1 hour and 40 minutes. This includes a 15-minute reading period. The reading period is designed to provide you with time to develop thoughtful, well-organized responses. During the reading period you are advised to read Question 1 and plan your answer. If you have time, you may also read Questions 2, 3, and 4. You may begin writing your responses before the reading period is over. You may make notes in the orange booklet, but your responses must be written in the free-response booklet using your pen. At the top of each page in the free-response booklet, circle the number of the question you are answering. You must answer Question 1, the document-based question, and you must choose one of the three long essay questions to answer.

The suggested writing time for Question 1 is 45 minutes. After 45 minutes, you will be advised to move on to the next question. Questions 2, 3, and 4 are weighted equally; you won't get extra credit for answering the question that may seem more difficult. Choose the question for which you are best prepared.

If you need more paper to complete your responses, raise your hand. At the top of each extra sheet of paper you use, write only:

- your AP number,
- Section II, and
- the question number you are working on.

You may now open the orange booklet and exam booklet and begin the 15-minute reading period.

Note Start Time _____ . Note Stop Time _____ .

After 15 minutes, say:

The reading period is over. You have 1 hour and 25 minutes remaining to complete Section II.

Note Start Time _____ . Note Stop Time _____ .

Check that students are using pens and that they are writing their answers in their exam booklets and not in the orange booklets.

After 45 minutes, say:

You are advised to move on to the next question. Answer only Question 2, 3, or 4. Do not answer more than one long essay question.

After 30 minutes, say:

There are 10 minutes remaining.

After 10 minutes, say:

Stop working and close both booklets. Look at the bottom front cover of your free-response booklet. Using the essay-choice labels that you set aside earlier, select the label that matches the question you chose to answer (Question 2, Question 3, or Question 4) and apply it to the bottom front cover of your free-response booklet, where indicated. For example, if you answered Question 2 apply the label "2." Look up when you have finished. . . .

Now put both booklets on your desk, faceup. Do not place your Section II free-response booklet inside your orange booklet or vice versa. Put your unused labels next to the booklets. . . .

If any students used extra paper for a question in the free-response section, have those students staple the extra sheet(s) to the first page corresponding to that question in their free-response booklets. Complete an Incident Report after the exam (see page 67 of the 2017-18 AP Coordinator's Manual for complete details).

Then say:

Remain in your seat, without talking, while the exam materials are collected. . . .

Collect a free-response booklet, an orange booklet, and the unused labels from each student. Check for the following:

- Free-response booklet front cover: The student placed an AP number label and an essay-choice label in the appropriate boxes and printed their initials and today's date.
- Free-response booklet back cover: The student completed the "Important Identification Information" area.
- The student wrote answers in the free-response booklet and not in the orange booklet.

The orange booklets must be returned with the rest of your exam materials. Keep the orange booklets separate from the free-response booklets. Do not place the free-response booklets inside the orange booklets or vice versa.

You may discard the essay-choice labels after you have checked that all students have applied one label to each free-response booklet. When all exam materials have been collected and accounted for, return to students any electronic devices you may have collected before the start of the exam.

If you are giving the regularly scheduled exam, say:

You may not discuss or share the free-response exam content with anyone unless it is released on the College Board website in about two days. Your AP Exam score results will be available online in July.

If you are giving the alternate exam for late testing, say:

None of the content in this exam may ever be discussed or shared in any way at any time. Your AP Exam score results will be available online in July.

If any students completed the AP number card at the beginning of this exam, say:

Please remember to take your AP number card with you. You will need the information on this card to view your scores and order AP score reporting services online.

Then say:

You are now dismissed.

After-Exam Tasks

Before you leave the testing room, be sure to insert all of the Section I, Part B: Short-Answer Response Booklets inside the yellow short-answer response booklet return envelope(s) with the folds of the short-answer response booklets facing the same direction. Insert no more than 25 short-answer response booklets in a single envelope. Do not include multiple-choice answer sheets inside the short-answer response booklet return envelope(s). If you use more than one envelope, number the envelopes consecutively (1 of 3, 2 of 3, 3 of 3, etc.).

Do not tape or seal this envelope. Follow the directions on pages 75–76 of the 2017-18 AP Coordinator's Manual for packing the yellow short-answer response booklet return envelope(s) in your return shipment to the AP Program.

Be sure to give the completed seating chart to the AP coordinator. Schools must retain seating charts for at least six months (unless the state or district requires that they be retained for a longer period of time). Schools should not return any seating charts in their exam shipments unless they are required as part of an Incident Report.

NOTE: If you administered exams to students with accommodations, review the 2017-18 AP Coordinator's Manual and the 2017-18 AP SSD Guidelines for information about completing the NAR form, and returning these exams.

The exam proctor should complete the following tasks if asked to do so by the AP coordinator. Otherwise, the AP coordinator must complete these tasks:

- Complete an Incident Report for any students who used extra paper for the free-response section. (Incident Report forms are provided in the coordinator packets sent with the exam shipments.) These forms must be completed with a No. 2 pencil. It is best to complete a single Incident Report for multiple students per exam subject, per administration (regular or late testing), as long as all required information is provided. Include all exam booklets with extra sheets of paper in an Incident Report return envelope (see page 67 of the 2017-18 AP Coordinator's Manual for complete details).
- Return all exam materials to secure storage until they are shipped back to the AP Program. (See page 26 of the 2017-18 AP Coordinator's Manual for more information about secure storage.) Before storing materials, check the “School Use Only” section on page 1 of the answer sheet and:
 - ◆ Fill in the appropriate section number circle in order to access a separate AP Instructional Planning Report (for regularly scheduled exams only) or subject score roster at the class section or teacher level. See “Post-Exam Activities” in the 2017-18 AP Coordinator's Manual.
 - ◆ Check your list of students who are eligible for fee reductions and fill in the appropriate circle on their registration answer sheets.

Student Answer Sheet for the Multiple-Choice Section

Use this section to capture student responses. (Note that the following answer sheet is a sample, and may differ from one used in an actual exam.)

R. YOUR MAILING ADDRESS

Use the address abbreviations from your AP Student Pack. Fill in only one circle per column. Indicate a space in your address by leaving a blank box; do not grid that column.

Grid for mailing address with columns for STREET ADDRESS, CITY, ZIP OR POSTAL CODE, and COUNTRY CODE. Includes a STATE section with radio buttons for each state and territory.

S. FOR STUDENTS OUTSIDE THE UNITED STATES ONLY

If your address does not fit in the spaces provided in Item R, fill in as many circles as you can, then fill in the circle in Item S and print the remainder of your address in the spaces provided.

Form for students outside the US with fields for Address, City, State or Province, Country, and ZIP or Postal Code.

U. EMAIL ADDRESS

By providing your email address, you are granting the College Board permission to use your email address in accordance with the policies in the 2017-18 Bulletin for AP Students and Parents.

V. SEX

Radio buttons for Female and Male.

W. WHICH LANGUAGE DO YOU KNOW BEST?

Radio buttons for English, English and another language about the same, and Another language.

X. RACIAL/ETHNIC GROUP

Please answer both questions about Hispanic origin and about race. For the following questions about your identity, Hispanic origins are not races.

(You may mark all that apply.)

Two columns of radio button questions: a. Are you of Hispanic, Latino, or Spanish origin? b. What is your race? with various options.

Y. PARENTAL EDUCATION LEVEL

In the first column, indicate the highest level of education of one parent/guardian, and indicate whether this is your mother/female guardian or father/male guardian. Then, if applicable, indicate the highest level of education of your other parent/guardian in the second column, and indicate whether this is your mother/female guardian or father/male guardian.

Grid for parental education level with radio buttons for guardian type and education levels.

T. STUDENT IDENTIFIER (Student ID Number)

Grid for entering the student ID number.

Section I: Multiple-Choice and Short-Answer Questions

This is the multiple-choice and short-answer section of the 2018 AP Exam. It includes cover material and other administrative instructions to help familiarize students with the mechanics of the exam. (Note that future exams may differ in look from the following content.)

Instructions

Section I, Part A of this exam contains 55 multiple-choice questions. Fill in only the circles for numbers 1 through 55 on your multiple-choice answer sheet. Because this section offers only four answer options for each question, do not mark the (E) answer circle for any question.

Indicate all of your answers to the multiple-choice questions on the multiple-choice answer sheet. No credit will be given for anything written in this exam booklet, but you may use the booklet for notes or scratch work. After you have decided which of the suggested answers is best, completely fill in the corresponding circle on the multiple-choice answer sheet. Give only one answer to each question. If you change an answer, be sure that the previous mark is erased completely. Here is a sample question and answer.

Sample Question Sample Answer

Chicago is a (A) ● (C) (D) (E)
(A) state
(B) city
(C) country

Use your time effectively, working as quickly as you can without losing accuracy. Do not spend too much time on any one question. Go on to other questions and come back to the ones you have not answered if you have time. It is not expected that everyone will know the answers to all of the multiple-choice questions.

Your total score on the multiple-choice section is based only on the number of questions answered correctly. Points are not deducted for incorrect answers or unanswered questions.

UNITED STATES HISTORY

SECTION I, Part A

Time—55 minutes

55 Questions

Directions: Each of the questions or incomplete statements is followed by four suggested answers or completions. Select the one that is best in each case and then fill in the corresponding circle on the answer sheet.

Questions 1 and 2 refer to the following excerpt.

“We have as yet no certaine prooffe or experience concerning the vertues of . . . Corne, although the . . . Indians . . . are constrained to make a virtue of necessitie, and think it a good food: whereas we may easily judge that it nourisheth but little, and is of a hard . . . digestion, a more convenient food for swine than for men.”

John Gerard, English botanist, The Herball or Generall Historie of Plantes, 1597

1. The development that brought “corne” to the attention of botanists such as Gerard is best known as the
 - (A) Columbian Exchange
 - (B) encomienda system
 - (C) trans-Atlantic slave trade
 - (D) Enlightenment
2. Gerard’s description of “corne” in the excerpt best reflects which of the following?
 - (A) Curiosity about American Indian ways of life
 - (B) Assumptions about the superiority of European culture
 - (C) Inability to find uses for North American crops
 - (D) Concerns about economic threats posed by North American imports

Questions 3 - 5 refer to the following excerpt.

“Various are the reports and conjectures of the causes of the present Indian war. Some impute it to an imprudent zeal in the magistrates of Boston to christianize those heathen before they were civilized and enjoining them the strict observation of their laws. . . . Some believe there have been vagrant and Jesuitical priests, who have made it their business, for some years past, to go from Sachem to Sachem, to exasperate the Indians against the English and to bring them into a confederacy, and that they were promised supplies from France and other parts to extirpate [eradicate] the English nation out of the continent of America.”

Edward Randolph, report of King Philip’s War (Metacom’s War) in
New England, 1676

3. The confederacy formed to “exasperate the Indians against the English” was motivated primarily by which of the following?
- (A) Fraudulent trade deals between the leaders of Plymouth Colony and the Wampanoags
 - (B) Dispossession of Wampanoag land and threats to their sovereignty
 - (C) Forced religious conversion of Wampanoags by Puritan missionaries
 - (D) Intermarriage with the English, which threatened Wampanoag cultural independence
4. Which of the following best characterizes relations between the English and American Indians in New England following Metacom’s War?
- (A) Peaceful accommodation between both groups
 - (B) Religious freedom for the English and American Indians
 - (C) Dramatic decline and dispersion of the American Indian population
 - (D) Recognition of American Indian property and land rights
5. Compared with French and Spanish interactions with American Indians, English interaction with American Indians more often promoted
- (A) respect for political alliances
 - (B) cultural blending
 - (C) separation between the groups
 - (D) assimilation of Americans Indians into colonial societies

Questions 6 and 7 refer to the following excerpt.

“That a British and American legislature, for regulating the administration of the general affairs of America, be proposed and established in America, including all the said colonies; within, and under which government, each colony shall retain its present constitution, and powers of regulating and governing its own internal police, in all cases whatsoever.

“That the said government be administered by a President General, to be appointed by the King and a Grand Council, to be chosen by the representatives of the people of the several colonies, in their respective assemblies, once in every three years.”

Joseph Galloway, “A Plan of a Proposed Union Between Great Britain and the Colonies,” proposal debated by the First Continental Congress, 1774

6. The excerpt most strongly suggests that in 1774 which of the following was correct?
- (A) The American colonists were united in their desire for independence from Great Britain.
 - (B) The American colonists felt the need to unite against the threat from American Indians.
 - (C) Some members of the First Continental Congress sought a compromise between submission to British authority and independence.
 - (D) Some members of the First Continental Congress thought it would be relatively easy to unify the colonies and win independence from Great Britain.
7. The key concern that Galloway’s plan was designed to address was the
- (A) lack of American representation in the British Parliament
 - (B) demand for back pay for veterans of the French and Indian War (Seven Years’ War)
 - (C) complaint about high tariffs imposed on colonial merchants for exports to Great Britain
 - (D) continuing security threat posed by the French in Canada

Questions 8 - 10 refer to the following excerpt.

“The petition of a great number of blacks detained in a state of slavery in the bowels of a free and Christian country humbly showeth that . . . they have in common with all other men a natural and inalienable right to that freedom which the Great Parent of the Universe has bestowed equally on all mankind and which they have never forfeited by any compact or agreement whatever. . . .

“[E]very principle from which America has acted in the course of their unhappy difficulties with Great Britain pleads stronger than a thousand arguments in favor of your petitioners. They therefore humbly beseech your honors to give this petition its due weight and consideration and cause an act of the legislature to be passed whereby they may be restored to the enjoyments of that which is the natural right of all men.”

Petition for freedom to the Massachusetts Council and the House of Representatives for the State of Massachusetts, January 1777

 - (B) The passage of the Kansas-Nebraska Act
 - (C) The secession of most Southern states
 - (D) The ratification of the Fourteenth Amendment

Questions 14 - 16 refer to the following excerpt.

“Resolved, That woman is man’s equal. . . .

“Resolved, That woman has too long rested satisfied in the circumscribed limits which corrupt customs . . . have marked out for her, and that it is time she should move in the enlarged sphere . . . assigned her.

“Resolved, That it is the duty of the women of this country to secure to themselves their sacred right to the elective franchise.

“Resolved, . . . That, being invested by the Creator with the same capabilities, and the same consciousness of responsibility for their exercise, it is demonstrably the right and duty of woman, equally with man, to promote every righteous cause, by every righteous means.”

Declaration of Sentiments and Resolutions (Seneca Falls Convention), 1848

14. The language and themes of the excerpt were most directly inspired by the
- (A) Articles of Confederation

- (A) achieving the right to vote
 - (B) receiving equal pay for equal work
 - (C) ending domestic violence
 - (D) gaining equal access to higher education

Questions 17 - 19 refer to the following excerpt.

“For a few years in the 1850s, ethnic conflict among whites rivaled sectional conflict as a major political issue. The immediate origins of this phenomenon lay in the sharp increase of immigration after 1845. . . . The average quadrupled in the 1830s. But even this paled in comparison with the immigration of the late 1840s. . . . During the decade 1846–1855, more than three million immigrants entered the United States—equivalent to 15 percent of the 1845 population. This was the largest proportional increase in the foreign-born population for any ten-year period in American history. . . . Equal in significance to the increase in the foreign-born population were changes in its composition.”

James M. McPherson and James K. Hogue, historians, Ordeal By Fire: The Civil War and Reconstruction, 2010

17. Which of the following most directly contributed to “the sharp increase of immigration after 1845” referenced in the excerpt?
- (A) The Second Great Awakening
 - (B) Crop failures and revolutions in Europe
 - (C) Removal of American Indians from the Southeast
 - (D) Tariff policies during Andrew Jackson’s administration
18. Which of the following could best be used as evidence to support the argument in the excerpt that “ethnic conflict among whites rivaled sectional conflict as a major political issue” of the period?
- (A) Growing concern about the political and cultural influence of Catholic immigrants
 - (B) Growing fear of political radicalism among southern and eastern European immigrants
 - (C) Increasing cultural influence of European Romanticism in the United States
 - (D) Increasing support for the antislavery cause among the immigrant community
19. The conflict described in the excerpt is most similar to conflict in what other period?
- (A) The period from after the Seven Years’ War through the 1760s
 - (B) The period from after the War of 1812 through the 1820s
 - (C) The period from after the First World War through the 1920s
 - (D) The period from after the Second World War through the 1950s

Questions 20 - 22 refer to the following excerpt.

“It is for us the living, rather, to be dedicated here to the unfinished work which they who fought here have thus far so nobly advanced. It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us—that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion—that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain—that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom—and that government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth.”

Abraham Lincoln, Gettysburg Address, November 1863

20. After 1863, which of the following most fulfilled the “new birth of freedom” that the excerpt refers to?
- (A) Ratification of the Thirteenth, Fourteenth, and Fifteenth Amendments
 - (B) The compromise that resolved the election of 1876
 - (C) Establishment of the Ku Klux Klan and similar organizations

 - (B) Tensions between isolationism and international engagement
 - (C) Disagreements over whether to allow slavery in new territories
 - (D) Debates about the role of religion in society and government
22. Lincoln’s main purpose in the excerpt was to
- (A) advocate racial equality
 - (B) encourage the punishment of the South
 - (C) propose expanded democratic voting rights
 - (D) gain continued support for the war effort

Questions 23 - 25 refer to the following excerpt.

Sean Wilentz, historian, Chants Democratic, 1984

23. Which of the following most directly led to the changes described in the excerpt?
- (A) Innovative uses of photography to achieve social change
 - (B) Technological innovations in the production of goods

 - (B) Efforts to spread democracy overseas had been largely peaceful.
 - (C) Interventionism had become a more prevalent feature of foreign policy.
 - (D) Women were encouraged to join the armed forces.
32. The developments referenced by the image most directly contributed to United States involvement in
- (A) competition with Russia in opening trade with Japan
 - (B) the suppression of an independence movement in the Philippines
 - (C) acquisition of territory from Mexico through the Treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo
 - (D) an international monetary system that supported free trade between nations

Questions 33 - 35 refer to the following excerpt.

“The National Progressive Party, committed to the principle of government by a self-controlled democracy expressing its will through representatives of the people, pledges itself to secure such alterations in the fundamental law of the several States and of the United States as shall insure the representative character of the government.”

Progressive Party Platform, 1912

33. The excerpt suggests that Progressives in the early twentieth century most typically sought to
- (A) challenge political inequality
 - (B) advocate a return to agrarianism
 - (C) justify the inequality of wealth
 - (D) oppose United States imperialism
34. Progressivism, as described in the excerpt, has the most in common with which of the following later domestic policy initiatives?

 - (B) Recent immigrants
 - (C) Agricultural workers
 - (D) Middle-class women

Questions 36 - 38 refer to the following excerpt.

“Beginning in the 1930s and lasting into the 1950s, black Chicago experienced a cultural renaissance. . . . Chicago had become a major destination for black southern migrants. . . . It was also an urban industrial center. This fact gave a unique working-class and internationalist perspective to the cultural work that would take place there. . . .

“A desire to live freely in ‘the metropolis’ continued to characterize the aspirations of migrants as second-wave Chicago migrants arrived. . . . The 1930s and 1940s witnessed a resurgence of black working-class political radicalism that was captured and reflected in the expressive visual and literary productions of Chicago Black Renaissance artists.”

Darlene Clark Hine, historian, The Black Chicago Renaissance, 2012

36. The “political radicalism” referred to in the excerpt was most directly a response to the experience of
- (A) desegregation
 - (B) economic depression
 - (C) mass consumption
 - (D) nativism
37. Before moving to Chicago, the people described in the excerpt most likely were engaged in which of the following?
- (A) Sharecropping or tenant farming
 - (B) Gang labor on the railways
 - (C) Mining and other extractive industries
 - (D) Manufacturing in urban factories
38. Which of the following most likely contributed to the decline of the “political radicalism” referred to in the excerpt?
- (A) The drafting of young men to fight in Vietnam
 - (B) Racial discrimination in the United States armed forces during the Second World War
 - (C) Anticommunist measures during the Cold War
 - (D) Neglect of Black artists and culture during the New Deal

Questions 39 - 41 refer to the following excerpt.

“In the future days, which we seek to make secure, we look forward to a world founded upon four essential human freedoms.

“The first is freedom of speech and expression—everywhere in the world.

“The second is freedom of every person to worship God in his own way—everywhere in the world.

“The third is freedom from want—which, translated into world terms, means economic understandings which will secure to every nation a healthy peacetime life for its inhabitants—everywhere in the world.

“The fourth is freedom from fear—which, translated into world terms, means a world-wide reduction of armaments to such a point and in such a thorough fashion that no nation will be in a position to commit an act of physical aggression against any neighbor—anywhere in the world.”

President Franklin D. Roosevelt, State of the Union address, January 1941

39. Roosevelt’s speech was most likely intended to increase public support for
- (A) extending New Deal programs to guarantee unemployment benefits
 - (B) integrating the United States armed forces
 - (C) aiding the Allies in Europe during the Second World War
 - (D) enhancing rights protected by the United States Constitution
40. Which of the following most directly contributed to Roosevelt’s view that “freedom from want” was necessary?
- (A) The inspiration of Woodrow Wilson’s vision for an international democratic order
 - (B) The experience of domestic and global economic upheavals during the 1930s
 - (C) The memory of federal agencies violating some Americans’ civil liberties in the 1920s
 - (D) The fear of the Soviet threat to spread communism to nations in the West
41. Which of the following most immediately increased enthusiasm in the United States for upholding the freedoms outlined in the excerpt?
- (A) The passage of a federal law providing veterans with financial aid in housing and education
 - (B) The successful detonation of an atomic bomb as part of the Manhattan Project
 - (C) The growing number of women working in defense manufacturing
 - (D) The attack on the United States at Pearl Harbor

Questions 42 - 44 refer to the following excerpt.

“[After the Second World War, Americans] wanted . . . a secure country. Security would enable them to take advantage of the fruits of prosperity and peace. . . . And so they adhered to an overarching principle that would guide them in their personal and political lives: containment. . . . Domestic containment was bolstered by a powerful political culture that rewarded its adherents and marginalized its detractors. . . . [C]ontainment aptly describes the way in which public policy, personal behavior, and even political values were focused on the home. . . . Vast numbers of American women and men during the early years of the cold war . . . got married, moved to the suburbs, and had babies. . . . [F]ew were willing to give up the rewards of conforming for the risks of resisting the domestic path.”

Elaine Tyler May, historian, Homeward Bound: American Families in the Cold War Era, 1988

42. The rise of what the excerpt describes as “domestic containment” most directly contributed to which of the following characteristics of United States society during the period?
- (A) White Southern resistance to school integration
 - (B) Greater cultural homogeneity
 - (C) Evangelical Protestant churches’ increased political engagement
 - (D) The popularity of liberal politics
43. The pattern described in the excerpt of Americans who “got married, moved to the suburbs, and had babies” most directly contributed to which of the following long-term developments?
- (A) Increased immigration from abroad
 - (B) Greater concern about the environment
 - (C) Wage stagnation for the working and middle classes
 - (D) The rise of youth rebellion through the counterculture
44. A desire for greater national security in the United States emerged immediately after the Second World War because of fear of which of the following?
- (A) The spread of international communism
 - (B) Decolonization in Africa and Asia
 - (C) The emergence of détente
 - (D) Oil crises in the Middle East

Questions 45 - 48 refer to the following graph.

United States Bureau of Labor Statistics

45. The overall trend from 1960 to 1970 depicted on the graph resulted from all of the following EXCEPT the
- (A) growth of corporations
 - (B) continuation of federal investment
 - (C) adoption of digital technologies
 - (D) development of new consumer products
46. A development related to the overall trend from 1960 to 1980 depicted on the graph was the
- (A) increase in public concern regarding air and water quality
 - (B) widespread replacement of male factory workers with female workers
 - (C) creation of the first trusts and monopolies
 - (D) ban of free-trade agreements between North American countries
47. The overall trend from 1980 to 2010 depicted on the graph was most directly caused by the

 - (B) increasing integration of the United States into the world economy
 - (C) reforms to the United States social welfare system
 - (D) boom in the United States financial and stock markets
48. The overall trend from 1980 to 2010 depicted on the graph most directly led to a decline in
- (A) income inequality
 - (B) immigration from abroad
 - (C) concern about the environment
 - (D) union membership

Questions 49 and 50 refer to the following excerpt.

“We are people of this generation, bred in at least modest comfort, housed now in universities. . . . Freedom and equality for each individual, government of, by, and for the people—these American values we found good. . . . As we grew, however, our comfort was penetrated by events too troubling to dismiss. . . . The declaration ‘all men are created equal’ rang hollow before the facts of Negro life. . . . The proclaimed peaceful intentions of the United States contradicted its economic and military investments in the Cold War status quo. . . . America rests in national stalemate, . . . its democratic system apathetic and manipulated rather than ‘of, by, and for the people.’”

Students for a Democratic Society, “The Port Huron Statement,” 1962

49. Which of the following most directly contributed to the sentiments expressed in the excerpt?
- (A) Concerns about the declining role of the United States in Western Europe
 - (B) The increasing use of federal power to combat racial discrimination
 - (C) Social inequalities exposed during the Civil Rights movement
 - (D) Support for the equality of gays and lesbians
50. Based on the excerpt, Students for a Democratic Society would most likely support
- (A) greater global economic integration under United States leadership
 - (B) expanded attempts to repress communists in the United States
 - (C) a decrease in United States intervention in Asia
 - (D) reduced spending for government social programs

Questions 51 - 53 refer to the following excerpt.

“I will not accept the excuse that the federal government has grown so big and powerful that it is beyond the control of any president, any administration or Congress. We are going to put an end to the notion that the American taxpayer exists to fund the federal government. The federal government exists to serve the American people. . . . We are taxing ourselves into economic exhaustion and stagnation, crushing our ability and incentive to save, invest, and produce. This must stop.”

Ronald Reagan, speech accepting the Republican Party’s nomination for president, 1980

51. Reagan’s administration implemented the ideas expressed in the excerpt by
- (A) increasing defense spending
 - (B) reducing regulation of industry
 - (C) expanding protection of the environment

- (A) White males in the Sunbelt
 - (B) Women in the Northeast
 - (C) African Americans in the Midwest
 - (D) Latinos in the Southwest
53. The excerpt reflects many Americans’ belief at the time that the federal government
- (A) was responsible for building infrastructure such as roads and schools
 - (B) had been unable to solve social and economic problems
 - (C) should vigorously resist communism abroad
 - (D) should avoid interfering in moral issues

Questions 54 and 55 refer to the following excerpt.

“What is the phenomenon of globalization . . . ? Fundamentally, it is the closer integration of the countries and peoples of the world which has been brought about by the enormous reduction of costs of transportation . . . and the breaking down of artificial barriers to the flow of goods, services, capital, knowledge, and (to a lesser extent) people across borders.”

Joseph E. Stiglitz, economist, Globalization and Its Discontents, 2002

54. Which of the following earlier trends was most similar to the pattern described in the excerpt?
- (A) The development of Atlantic world commerce in the 1600s and early 1700s
 - (B) The appearance of economic cycles in the early 1800s
 - (C) The restrictions on immigration in the latter half of the 1800s
 - (D) The increases in worldwide tariffs during the Great Depression
55. Which of the following contributed most directly to the trend described in the excerpt?
- (A) The implementation of protective tariffs by trading nations
 - (B) The spread of computer technology and Internet use
 - (C) The growth of labor unions' economic influence
 - (D) The increased number and size of cities in the United States

SECTION I, Part B

Time—40 minutes

Directions: Answer Question 1 and Question 2. Answer either Question 3 or Question 4.

Write your responses in the Section I, Part B: Short-Answer Response booklet. You must write your response to each question on the lined page designated for that response. Each response is expected to fit within the space provided.

In your responses, be sure to address all parts of the questions you answer. Use complete sentences; an outline or bulleted list alone is not acceptable. You may plan your answers in this exam booklet, but no credit will be given for notes written in this booklet.

“If American sectionalism entered a new phase in 1846, it was neither because North and South clashed for the first time nor because the issue of slavery for the first time assumed importance. As early as the Confederation, North and South had been at odds. . . . Once the government under the Constitution went into effect, bitter sectional conflicts raged. . . . This sectional rivalry tended to become institutionalized in the opposing [political] organizations. . . . No matter which region embraced nationalism and which particularism, sectional conflict remained a recurrent phenomenon.”

David M. Potter, The Impending Crisis, 1848–1861, published in 1976

“The Civil War represented an utter and unique breakdown of the normal democratic political process. When one section of the country refused to accept the decision of a presidential election, secession and the ensuing war became the great exception to the American political tradition of compromise. The rending of the nation was the one time that conflict seemed too irrepressible, too fundamental, to be contained within common consensual boundaries. Because the war was such an anomaly, both participants and later historians have been fascinated with its causes since the shooting started.”

Michael F. Holt, The Political Crisis of the 1850s, published in 1978

1. Using the excerpts above, answer (a), (b), and (c).
 - a) Briefly describe ONE major difference between Potter’s and Holt’s historical interpretations of the Civil War.
 - b) Briefly explain how ONE specific historical event or development during the period 1786–1861 that is not explicitly mentioned in the excerpts could be used to support Potter’s interpretation.
 - c) Briefly explain how ONE specific historical event or development during the period 1786–1861 that is not explicitly mentioned in the excerpts could be used to support Holt’s interpretation.

Instructions

The questions for Section II are printed in the orange Questions and Documents booklet. You may use that booklet to organize your answers and for scratch work, but you must write your answers in this Section II: Free Response booklet. No credit will be given for any work written in the Questions and Documents booklet.

The proctor will announce the beginning and end of the reading period. You are advised to spend the 15-minute period reading the question and planning your answer to Question 1, the document-based question (DBQ). If you have time, you may also read Questions 2, 3, and 4. You may begin writing your responses before the reading period is over.

Section II of this exam requires answers in essay form. Write clearly and legibly. Circle the number of the question you are answering at the top of each page in this booklet. Begin each answer on a new page. Do not skip lines. Cross out any errors you make; crossed-out work will not be scored.

Manage your time carefully. The proctor will announce the suggested time for each part, but you may proceed freely from one part to the next. Go on to Question 2, 3, or 4 if you finish Question 1 early. You may review your responses if you finish before the end of the exam is announced.

After the exam, you must apply the label that corresponds to the question you answered. For example, if you answered Question 2, apply the label 2 to the front cover. Failure to do so may delay your score.

UNITED STATES HISTORY

SECTION II

Total Time—1 hour and 40 minutes

Question 1 (Document-Based Question)

Suggested reading and writing time: 1 hour

It is suggested that you spend 15 minutes reading the documents and 45 minutes writing your response.

Note: You may begin writing your response before the reading period is over.

Directions: Question 1 is based on the accompanying documents. The documents have been edited for the purpose of this exercise.

In your response you should do the following.

- Respond to the prompt with a historically defensible thesis or claim that establishes a line of reasoning.
- Describe a broader historical context relevant to the prompt.
- Support an argument in response to the prompt using at least six documents.
- Use at least one additional piece of specific historical evidence (beyond that found in the documents) relevant to an argument about the prompt.
- For at least three documents, explain how or why the document’s point of view, purpose, historical situation, and/or audience is relevant to an argument.
- Use evidence to corroborate, qualify, or modify an argument that addresses the prompt.

1. Evaluate the extent of change in United States foreign policy in the period 1783 to 1828.

Document 1

Source: President George Washington, Neutrality Proclamation, April 1793.

Whereas it appears that a state of war exists between Austria, Prussia, Sardinia, Great Britain, and the United Netherlands, of the one part, and France on the other; and the duty and interest of the United States require, that they should with sincerity and good faith adopt and pursue a conduct friendly and impartial toward the belligerent powers:

I have therefore thought fit by these presents to declare the disposition of the United States to observe the conduct aforesaid towards those powers respectively; and to exhort and warn the citizens of the United States carefully to avoid all acts and proceedings whatsoever, which may in any manner tend to contravene such disposition.

Document 2

Source: Treaty of Greenville, August 1795.

A treaty of peace between the United States of America and the tribes of Indians called the Wyandots, Delawares, Shawnees, Ottawas, Chippewas, Potawatomis, Miamis, Eel Rivers, Weas, Kickapoos, Piankashaws, and Kaskaskias. . . .

Article 1st: Henceforth all hostilities shall cease; peace is hereby established, and shall be perpetual; and a friendly intercourse shall take place between the said United States and Indian tribes. . . .

Article 4th: In consideration of the peace now established . . . the United States relinquish their claims to all other Indian lands northward of the River Ohio, eastward of the Mississippi, and westward and southward of the great lakes and the waters uniting them, according to the boundary line agreed on by the United States and the King of Great Britain, in the treaty of peace made between them in the year 1783. . . .

Article 5th: To prevent any misunderstanding about the Indian lands relinquished by the United States . . . the meaning of that relinquishment is this: the Indian tribes who have a right to those lands, are quietly to enjoy them, hunting, planting, and dwelling thereon so long as they please, without any molestation from the United States; but when those tribes or any of them shall be disposed to sell their lands, or any part of them, they are to be sold only to the United States, and until such sale, the United States will protect all the said Indian tribes in the quiet enjoyment of their lands against all citizens of the United States, and against all other white persons who intrude upon the same. And the said Indian tribes again acknowledge themselves and all their people to be under the protection of the said United States and no other power whatever.

Source: Letter from Thomas Jefferson to James Monroe (United States minister to France), September 1795.

Mr. Jay's treaty has at length been made public. So general a burst of dissatisfaction never before appeared against any transaction. Those who understand the particular articles of it, condemn these articles. Those who do not understand them minutely, condemn it generally as wearing a hostile face to France. This last is the most numerous class, comprehending the whole body of the people, who have taken a greater interest in this transaction than they were ever known to do in any other. It has, in my opinion, completely demolished the monarchical party here. The chamber of commerce in New York, against the body of the town, the merchants in Philadelphia, against the body of their town, also, and our town of Alexandria have come forward in its support.

Source: James L. Cathcart, United States consul at Tripoli, letter to the Secretary of State, May 1800.

The only conclusion which can be drawn from the Bashaw's [pasha of Tripoli, Yusuf Karamanli] proceedings is that he wants a present, and if he does not get one, he will forge pretences to commit depredations on the property of our fellow citizens; His letter to the President will be the means of keeping him quiet until he receives an answer. . . . I therefore can see no alternative, but to station some of our Frigates in the Mediterranean, otherwise we will be continually subject to the same insults which the Imperials [Austria-Hungary], Danes, Swedes, and Ragusians [region in modern day Croatia] have already suffered and will still continue to suffer, if they do not keep a sufficient Naval force in this Sea to protect their trade.

Document 6

The United States had just recovered, under the auspices of their present constitution, from the debility which their revolutionary struggle had produced, when the convulsive movements of France excited throughout the civilized world the mingled sensations of hope and fear—of admiration and alarm. The interest which those movements, would in themselves, have excited, was incalculably increased, however, as soon as Great Britain became a party to the first memorable coalition against France, and assumed the character of a belligerent power . . . the difference of the scene would no longer exempt the United States from the influence, and the evils of the European conflict. On the one hand, their government was connected with France, by treaties of alliance and commerce; and the services which that nation had rendered to the cause of American independence. . . . On the other hand, Great Britain leaving the treaty of 1783 unexecuted, forcibly retained the American posts upon the northern frontier; and, slighting every overture to place the diplomatic and commercial relations of the two countries, upon a fair and friendly foundation, seemed to contemplate the success of the American revolution, in a spirit of unextinguishable animosity.

Document 7

Source: Secretary of State John Quincy Adams, an address delivered at the request of the Committee of the Citizens of Washington, on the occasion of reading the Declaration of Independence, July 4, 1821.

America, in the assembly of nations, since her admission among them, has invariably, though often fruitlessly, held forth to them the hand of honest friendship, of equal freedom, of generous reciprocity. She has uniformly spoken among them, though often to heedless and often to disdainful ears, the language of equal liberty, of equal justice, and of equal rights. She has, in the lapse of nearly half a century, without a single exception, respected the independence of other nations while asserting and maintaining her own. She has abstained from interference in the concerns of others, even when the conflict has been for principles to which she clings, as to the last vital drop that visits the heart. . . .

But she goes not abroad, in search of monsters to destroy. She is the well-wisher to the freedom and independence of all. She is the champion and vindicator only of her own. . . .

She well knows that by once enlisting under other banners than her own, were they even the banners of foreign Independence, she would involve herself, beyond the power of extrication, in all the wars of interest and intrigue, of individual avarice, envy, and ambition, which assume the colors and usurp the standard of freedom. The fundamental maxims of her policy would insensibly change from liberty to force. . . . She might become the dictatress of the world. She would be no longer the ruler of her own spirit.

END OF DOCUMENTS FOR QUESTION 1

Question 2, 3, or 4 (Long Essay)
Suggested writing time: 40 minutes

Directions: Answer Question 2 or Question 3 or Question 4.

In your response you should do the following.

- Respond to the prompt with a historically defensible thesis or claim that establishes a line of reasoning.
 - Describe a broader historical context relevant to the prompt.
 - Support an argument in response to the prompt using specific and relevant examples of evidence.
 - Use historical reasoning (e.g., comparison, causation, continuity or change over time) to frame or structure an argument that addresses the prompt.
 - Use evidence to corroborate, qualify, or modify an argument that addresses the prompt.
2. Evaluate the extent to which trans-Atlantic exchanges affected colonial culture in British North America in the period from 1700 to 1770.

Short-Answer Question 1

“If American sectionalism entered a new phase in 1846, it was neither because North and South clashed for the first time nor because the issue of slavery for the first time assumed importance. As early as the Confederation, North and South had been at odds. . . . Once the government under the Constitution went into effect, bitter sectional conflicts raged. . . . This sectional rivalry tended to become institutionalized in the opposing [political] organizations. . . . No matter which region embraced nationalism and which particularism, sectional conflict remained a recurrent phenomenon.”

David M. Potter, The Impending Crisis, 1848–1861, published in 1976

“The Civil War represented an utter and unique breakdown of the normal democratic political process. When one section of the country refused to accept the decision of a presidential election, secession and the ensuing war became the great exception to the American political tradition of compromise. The rending of the nation was the one time that conflict seemed too irrepressible, too fundamental, to be contained within common consensual boundaries. Because the war was such an anomaly, both participants and later historians have been fascinated with its causes since the shooting started.”

Michael F. Holt, The Political Crisis of the 1850s, published in 1978

1. Using the excerpts above, answer (a), (b), and (c).

- a) Briefly describe ONE major difference between Potter’s and Holt’s historical interpretations of the Civil War.
- b) Briefly explain how ONE specific historical event or development during the period 1786–1861 that is not explicitly mentioned in the excerpts could be used to support Potter’s interpretation.
- c) Briefly explain how ONE specific historical event or development during the period 1786–1861 that is not explicitly mentioned in the excerpts could be used to support Holt’s interpretation.

Question-Specific Scoring Guide

- ONE point for describing one major difference between Potter’s and Holt’s historical interpretations of the Civil War
- ONE point for explaining how one specific historical event or development during the period 1786–1861 that is not explicitly mentioned in the excerpts could be used to support Potter’s interpretation
- ONE point for explaining how specific historical event or development during the period 1786–1861 that is not explicitly mentioned in the excerpts could be used to support Holt’s interpretation

Scoring Notes

Introductory notes:

- Each point is earned independently.
- Accuracy: These rubrics require that students demonstrate historically defensible content knowledge. Given the timed nature of the exam, responses may contain errors that do not detract from their overall quality, as long as the historical content used to advance the argument is accurate.
- Clarity: Exam responses should be considered first drafts and thus may contain grammatical errors. Those errors will not be counted against a student unless they obscure the successful demonstration of the content knowledge, skills, and practices described below.

Examples of responses to (a) that would earn credit:

- Potter argues that the Civil War was a continuation of the sectionalism and conflict that characterized United States politics since the creation of the nation, and, thus, it was not a change or break from the past.
- In contrast, Holt contends that the Civil War represented an unprecedented breakdown of United States politics, a sharp contrast to the general consensus in the political system in the period prior to the outbreak of the war.
- Credited responses must explicitly address the substance of both excerpts.

Examples of responses to (b) that would earn credit:

- Northern and Mid-Atlantic states abolition of slavery or gradual emancipation
- Northwest Ordinance outlaws slavery above the Ohio River in Northwest Territory
- Missouri Compromise as evidence of tensions and sectionalism
- Development of political parties with regional loyalties
- Crises over tariffs and nullification (Tariff of Abominations; Kentucky and Virginia Resolutions)
- Impasses over annexation/acquisition of new territory
- Breakdown of series of compromises in the 1850s (Compromise of 1850, Kansas-Nebraska Act, Bleeding Kansas)
- Growing economic division between the North and South (e.g., Industrialization, Transportation, and Communication)
- The Hartford Convention as an example of Northern sectional interest causing conflict with the South.
- The enactment of the “Gag Rule” prohibiting the discussion of slavery in Congress

AP[®] UNITED STATES HISTORY

2018 SCORING GUIDELINES

Short-Answer Question 1 (continued)

Examples of responses to (c) that would earn credit:

NOTE: Any conflicts would have to have occurred after 1850 to earn credit (the Mexican-American War is not creditable).

- Election of Lincoln in 1860 (note, the excerpt does not include reference to any specific election or candidate)
- Compromises in Constitution
- Opposing sense of nationalism within the two separate regions
- Series of compromises over addition of new territories
- Bleeding Kansas and Kansas-Nebraska Act
- Cotton economy bound together economic interests of two regions
- Fugitive Slave Act
- Uncle Tom's Cabin
- Dred Scott v. Sandford

NOTE: It would be acceptable for test-takers to use some of the same examples to respond to both (b) and (c), as long as they explain how the example supported both interpretations.

Examples of responses to (b) that would earn credit:

- Sex discrimination eliminated in voting; Nineteenth Amendment (1920)
- Women had played an active, supportive role during the First World War and involvement in more public and political roles continued
- Mass media influenced culture and women were as likely to become highlighted in advertising as were men
- More economic opportunities for women; access to jobs in offices, sales, factories, and elsewhere
- Rise of flappers and the activities associated with flappers in the 1920s
- Women played active roles in social reform movements of Progressive Era

Examples of responses to (c) that would earn credit:

- New technologies (e.g., print magazines, moving pictures, and the radio in the 1920s) allowed more Americans to get information more quickly.
- Newly developed forms of mass media (e.g., the radio and advertising such as roadside billboards) influenced a developing consumer culture.
- The advertising industry sought to cultivate new markets (i.e., female drivers, independent women, flappers and young women).
- Economic growth allowed improved quality of life, encouraging people to spend disposable income on new consumer goods.
- The combination of mass production and increasing mass marketing toward women expanded opportunities for consumption and economic decision making.
- Availability of credit and peoples' willingness to buy on the installment plan expanded access to consumer goods.

NOTE: some examples could be used to support either (b) or (c). Responses should clearly indicate the connection between the historical development explained and the point that it is supporting.

Examples of responses to (a) that would earn credit:

- The United States believed it had to contain the spread and influence of communism around the world.
- Supporting democratic governments and leaders/supporting democracy around the world as vital to United States interests.
- The United States had an interest in maintaining free markets and capitalism around the world.
- The United States played a role in managing unresolved territorial (Soviet Union and China, interest in Korea) and colonial claims (France's interest in Vietnam/Indochina) from the immediate post-Second World War era.

Examples of responses to (b) that would earn credit:

- North Korea's invasion of South Korea prompted a United States and United Nations action to drive the North Koreans out, while in Vietnam the United States intervened because of the defeat of the French and the division of Vietnam decided at the peace conference.
- United States intervened in South Vietnam to build a government that would serve as an alternative to the Communist North Vietnam; US provided funds and support for the South Vietnamese regime against North Vietnam and the Viet Cong.
- Soldiers' wartime experience, especially of guerilla warfare, differed in Vietnam.
- United States experience in Korea validated, to some extent, the concept of containing communism, while the experience and United States loss in Vietnam ultimately undermined the concept of containment and preventing the domino effect.
- Domestic differences may include the more dramatic opposition to involvement in Vietnam as well as the diversion of energy and funds from domestic programs such as the Great Society.
- NOTE: Credited responses must address both the Korean War and the Vietnam War, but can imply the other with comparative qualifiers (such as "Vietnam was more divisive" thus implying "than Korea") and describe more than vague generalizations.

Examples of responses to (c) that would earn credit:

NOTE: Response may use the same example in c as b, BUT earns the point only with additional development of the example.

- Korean War
 - Confirmed domestic anxieties about the threat of communism and the Soviet Union and China
 - Led to a sustained period of Cold War tensions
 - Extended use of the Selective Service System (the draft) from 1950 through the 1960s and the service of millions in the Armed forces at home and abroad in this period
- Vietnam War
 - Anti-war protest movement in the United States developed in response to United States involvement in Vietnam
 - Young people protested the military draft
 - Growing divide in the United States between traditionalists/conservatives/older Americans and leftists/radicals/younger Americans
 - Led to neglect of domestic programs such as Great Society, the downfall of the Lyndon Johnson presidency in 1968, and public distrust of government ("credibility gap")

Question 1 — Document-Based Question (continued)

Scoring Notes

Introductory notes:

- Except where otherwise noted, each point of these rubrics is earned independently, e.g., a student could earn a point for evidence without earning a point for thesis/claim.
- Accuracy: The components of these rubrics require that students demonstrate historically defensible content knowledge. Given the timed nature of the exam, essays may contain errors that do not detract from their overall quality, as long as the historical content used to advance the argument is accurate.
- Clarity: Exam essays should be considered first drafts and thus may contain grammatical errors. Those errors will not be counted against a student unless they obscure the successful demonstration of the content knowledge, skills, and practices described below.

Note: Student samples are quoted verbatim and may contain grammatical errors.

A. Thesis/Claim (0–1 points)

Responses earn one point by responding to the prompt with a historically defensible thesis that establishes a line of reasoning about the topic. To earn this point, the thesis must make a claim that responds to the prompt rather than simply restating or rephrasing the prompt. The thesis must suggest at least one main line of argument development or establish the analytic categories of the argument.

The thesis must consist of one or more sentences located in one place, either in the introduction or the conclusion.

Examples of acceptable theses

- “America’s foreign policy from 1783 to 1828 faced a double edged sword. On one hand, they tried to stay neutral while being lured into the never ending conflict between Britain and France. On the other hand, they sought to expand their trade and land while dealing with hostile Native Americans.” (This example shows a complex and historically defensible line of argument.)
- “The numerous restrictions from Great Britain, combined with the constant state of conflict from the colonial times, turned the former colonies off from international conflict and caused foreign policy from 1783-1828 to be rooted on neutrality.” (This example suggests a historically defensible line of argument development.)
- “The United States sought to be neutral and confront domestic issues, the nation became increasingly involved as it became more dependent on international trade and more intertwined in the tension between Great Britain and France.” (This example establishes the analytic categories for the argument.)

Example of unacceptable thesis

- “United States foreign policy developed around the idea of Manifest Destiny.” (This example is too generic and not specific to the time period.)
- “America’s foreign policy changed a lot because we were tired of Britain messing in our lives.” (This response largely repeats the prompt without adding historical material particular to the prompt.)

B. Contextualization (0–1 points)

Responses earn one point by describing a broader historical context relevant to the topic of the prompt. To earn this point, the response must accurately and explicitly connect the context of the prompt to broader historical events, developments, or processes that occurred before, during, or continued after the time frame of the question. This point is not awarded for merely a phrase or reference.

To earn the point, the response must accurately describe a context relevant to change in United States foreign policy in the period 1783 to 1828.

Examples of context might include:

- The American Revolution; alliance with France
- Mercantilism; commercial dependence on Great Britain
- The French Revolution (1789); Haitian Revolution (1794)
- French Revolutionary and Napoleonic Wars (1794–1815)
- The First Party System
- Settler colonialism; American Indian land cessions and resistance
- Latin American independence movements
- The Critical Period (Articles of Confederation, Constitutional Convention)

Example of acceptable contextualization:

- “Globalization has been a part of the American life before the true foundations of the nation were formed. Through the Columbian Exchange, the trans-Atlantic exchanges, and the colonies relationship with the mother country, Great Britain, the United States was destined to be internationally involved.” (This response describes commercial dependence which is broader historical context relevant to the topic of the prompt.)
- “The outbreak of the French Revolution in 1789 and subsequent warfare between Great Britain and France created opposing views about how the United States should align itself in foreign affairs.” (This response describes one broader historical context relevant to the topic of the prompt.)

Example of unacceptable contextualization:

- “The American Revolution left Americans prideful of their new nation but it gave them too much responsibility.” (This example is an attempt at contextualization. However, it is not specific enough in describing the actual consequences of the American Revolution and what responsibilities emerged because of victory. To earn credit for contextualization, this example would need to describe how the context offered is relevant to the topic.)
- “The volatility of foreign policy is similar to the rights of African Americans throughout our history. An example of this is how even with slavery abolished in the North, the Dred Scott case essentially returned it to legality with fugitive slave laws to support it.” (This example in itself would not earn credit for contextualization because, even though it may be historically accurate, it is not self-evidently relevant to the topic. To earn credit for contextualization, this example would need to describe how the context offered is relevant to the topic.)

C. Evidence (0–3 points)

Evidence from the Documents

In order to earn one point for using evidence from the documents, the response must address the topic of the prompt by using at least three documents. To earn one point for evidence from the documents, the response must accurately describe—rather than simply quote or paraphrase—content from at least three of the documents to address the topic of the prompt.

Example of describing the content of a document:

- “In Document 2, the United States wrote a treaty with the Native Americans to stop all the fighting.” (This example describes evidence from a document relevant to the topic, so it contributes toward the first evidence point, but it does not use that evidence to support an argument about change in United States foreign policy, so it does not contribute toward the second point.)

Example of unacceptably describing the content of a document:

- “In Document 2, neutrality is taken but with regard to internal conflicts; they returned American Indians’ rightful land to them and promised no further conflicts amongst them.” (This example does not contribute toward credit for describing evidence from the documents relevant to the topic because it misinterprets the document.)

OR

In order to earn two points for using evidence from the documents, the response must support an argument in response to the prompt by accurately using the content of at least six documents. To earn two points, responses must accurately describe the document’s content; they cannot earn a point by merely quoting or paraphrasing the documents with no connection to the topic of the prompt.

Example of supporting an argument using the content of a document:

- “Document 5 shows that at the turn of the 19th century, trade with the foreign powers of the world greatly increased (until Jefferson initiated the Embargo) either due to the lowering of tariffs, or the expansion of international trade networks. Exports and imports both rose dramatically, meaning some stability in foreign policy regarding trade.” (This example connects Document 5 and trade to foreign policy and therefore contributes toward two points for using the documents to support an argument.)

Example of unacceptably supporting an argument using the content of a document:

- “In 1808 trade imports and especially exports took a steep drop losing the country millions of dollars (Document 5).” (This example describes evidence from a document relevant to the topic, so it contributes toward the first evidence point, but it does not use that evidence to support an argument about change in United States foreign policy, so it does not contribute toward the second point.)

AP[®] UNITED STATES HISTORY

Question 1 — Document-Based Question (continued)

Evidence Beyond the Documents

In order to earn one point for evidence beyond the documents, the response must use at least one additional piece of specific historical evidence (beyond that found in the documents) relevant to an argument that addresses the topic. To earn this point, the evidence must be described and must be more than a phrase or reference.

This additional piece of evidence must be different from the evidence used to earn the point for contextualization. Typically, statements credited as contextualization will be more general statements that place an argument or a significant portion of it in a broader context. Statements credited as supporting evidence beyond the documents will typically be more specific details that function as support for a particular point made in an argument, analogous to the function of evidence drawn from the documents.

Evidence used might include the following, with appropriate elaboration:

- Adam Smith, Wealth of Nations (1776)
- Pinckney's Treaty (1795)
- Western Confederacy; Chief Little Turtle (Miami Indians)
- Battle of Fallen Timbers (1795)
- XYZ Affair (1798)
- Quasi-war with France (1798-1800)
- Alien and Sedition Acts (1798)
- Kentucky and Virginia Resolutions (1798)
- Revolution of 1800
- Louisiana Purchase (1803)
- Embargo Act of 1807
- Non-Intercourse Act (1809)
- Macon's Bill No. 2 (1810)
- Tenskwatawa (The Prophet)
- Tecumseh
- Battle of Tippecanoe (1811)
- Impressment
- War of 1812
- Treaty of Ghent (1814)
- Monroe Doctrine (1823)
- Rush-Bagot Treaty (1817)
- Convention/Treaty of 1818
- Adams-Onís Treaty (1819); acquisition of Florida

AP[®] UNITED STATES HISTORY

2018 SCORING GUIDELINES

Examples of acceptable use of an additional piece of specific historical evidence:

- “The War of 1812 between Tecumseh’s army of Native Americans and Americans accelerated the clashes between the two groups. However, the defeat of Tecumseh led to the downfall of peaceful coexistence between Natives and citizens and eventually leads to removal treaties that prompted the Trail of Tears in the future under Andrew Jackson’s presidency.” (This example uses a particular piece of evidence beyond the documents to make a connection to a larger argument.)
- “However, the U.S. eventually was forced to engage with foreign powers with the War of 1812. The conflict was due to British ships impressing American sailors. The British claimed to be retaking back their sailors. Jefferson attempted to limit impressment with the Embargo Act of 1807 and its effects can be seen in Document 5 where there is a sharp decrease in imports during this year.” (This example uses two particular pieces of evidence beyond the documents to make a connection to a larger argument.)

Example of unacceptable use of an additional piece of specific historical evidence:

- “James Monroe is also significant because he wrote the Monroe Doctrine which called for more European influence in the western hemispheres with hopes to make the U.S. the hegemony in that half of the world.” (This example would not earn credit for evidence beyond the documents because it is historically inaccurate.)

D. Analysis and Reasoning (0–2 points)

Document Sourcing

For at least three documents, the response explains how or why the document’s point of view, purpose, historical situation, and/or audience is relevant to an argument that addresses the prompt. To earn this point, the response must explain how or why—rather than simply identifying—the document’s point of view, purpose, historical situation, or audience is relevant to an argument addressing the prompt for each of the three documents sourced.

Example of an acceptable explanation of the relevance of the document’s point of view:

- “Jefferson, a Democratic-Republican, writes in Document 3 to inform Monroe (also a Democratic-Republican) about the unpopularity of Jay’s treaty in the United States. With Monroe stationed in France, he would not have been aware of the public’s disapproval and that he could hopefully change things overseas.” (This example contributes toward a point for document sourcing because it connects Jefferson and Monroe’s perspective on foreign affairs.)

Example of an unacceptable explanation of the relevance of the document’s point of view:

- “The point of view of this document (1) is of George Washington. He was a great general and president so it could be said that he really did know best for his country, and that his words are true.” (This example is a simplistic understanding of point of view since it only notes Washington is a general and president.)

AP[®] UNITED STATES HISTORY

2018 SCORING GUIDELINES

Example of an acceptable explanation of the relevance of the document’s purpose:

- “In Document 3, after the impressment of Americans, Jay, a foreign diplomat sent to sort this issue out. However, Jay’s treaty was a mockery of foreign affairs as they promised to amend part impressments but refused to mention anything further. Jefferson rightly criticized the unpopular and ineffective treaty.” (This example contributes toward a point for document sourcing because it connects the purpose of Jefferson’s letter in understanding the failures of Jay’s Treaty.)

Example of an unacceptable explanation of the relevance of the document’s purpose:

- “This documents (5) purpose was to most likely figure out the American Wealthy upon early years of trade.” (This example does not contribute toward a point for document sourcing because it does not connect the purpose of the graph to an argument about change in United States foreign policy.)

Example of an acceptable explanation of the relevance of the historical situation of a document:

- “As the United States’ first president, George Washington believed that involvement with foreign powers would detract from much-needed focus on the nation’s success, as seen in his neutrality proclamation, a response to conflict between France and other European powers. Washington sincerely hoped that United States foreign involvement would be limited. In his farewell address, he explicitly warned of the danger that would come with making formal alliances with foreign powers.” (This example contributes toward a point for document sourcing because it connects the situation regarding neutrality to the conflicts in Europe.)

Example of an unacceptable explanation of the relevance of the historical situation of a document:

- “Some Americans like George Washington in Document 1 were neutral in the conflict between France and Great Britain.” (This example does not contribute toward a point for document sourcing because it does not connect the sentiments of Americans to change in United States foreign policy.)

Example of acceptable explanation of the relevance of the audience:

- “The fact that Thomas Jefferson (Document 3) was writing to political ally James Monroe, the US minister to France at the time, highlights the disagreements about whether to side with Britain or France. Jefferson, as a Democratic-Republican and Francophile, supported France.” (This example contributes toward a point for document sourcing because it connects the audience for Jefferson’s letter to internal conflict over the course of United States foreign policy.)

Example of unacceptable explanation of the relevance of the audience:

- “Document 5 has an audience of scholars formulating ideas in the 1970s when it was published.” (This example does not contribute toward a point for document sourcing because it does not connect the graph to the prompt nor an argument about change in United States foreign policy.)

Question 1 — Document-Based Question (continued)

Demonstrating Complex Understanding

The response demonstrates a complex understanding, using evidence to corroborate, qualify, or modify an argument that addresses the question.

- Explaining a nuance by exploring different ways (e.g., via conflicts abroad, via annexation of Native American territory) in which United States foreign policy changed
- Explaining similarities and differences in the United States role in different parts of the world
- Explaining connections to other time periods such as United States expansionism in the late nineteenth century
- Confirming the validity of the response’s argument by explaining how different documents corroborate the argument in spite of differing perspectives among the authors
- Qualifying or modifying the argument by considering continuities in United States foreign policy at this time

Example of demonstrating complex understanding:

- The response below includes several examples of historical complexity peppered throughout the essay that use evidence to corroborate, qualify, or modify an argument about foreign policy. Here are some examples from one response in multiple locations. “America was still establishing itself as a country because it was new so it imported a lot from Britain, which is why America wanted to stay neutral in the Revolution with France because Northern Federalists were relying on trade with Britain.” (explains a nuance of an issue by analyzing multiple variables) “Adams request for isolationism is in line with the Monroe Doctrine which say America does not want Europe interfering in the Western Hemisphere.” (Explaining relevant and insightful connections with and across periods) “Britain still had a lot of forts on the frontier which was supposed to be removed through Jay’s treaty. However, even after the treaty, Britain didn’t accept America’s sovereignty at all and furthermore, France was angry over a British treaty with America, which led to the XYZ affair with France.” (Confirming the validity of an argument by corroborating multiple perspectives across themes) “Native Americans were very angry about the land grab so they started getting guns from the British so they can rebel against Americans, particularly Tecumseh, which escalated America’s tension with Great Britain.” (Continuity and change over time)

Example of unacceptably demonstrating complex understanding:

- The response below attempts to explain relevant and insightful connections within and across periods. However, it is not demonstrating a complex understanding of the historical development that is the focus of this essay, which is foreign policy from 1783–1828. This is merely a list of events in the 20th century and beyond that are not connected to a sophisticated or nuanced argument. Merely making references to other time periods in a synthetic fashion is not sufficient to earn the point. “Following the Declaration of Independence and the United States separating itself from under Great Britain’s rule, there were many conflicts to come. As American faced conflicts, such as WWI, WWII, Cold War, Great Depression, and more, their foreign policy of the nation would inevitably adapt in order to be of assistance to the betterment of the United States, For instance, with the current issues in the Middle Eastern nations of Iraq and Iran, the United States are involved.”

Scoring Notes

Introductory notes:

- Except where otherwise noted, each point of these rubrics is earned independently, e.g., a student could earn a point for evidence without earning a point for thesis/claim.
- Accuracy: The components of these rubrics require that students demonstrate historically defensible content knowledge. Given the timed nature of the exam, essays may contain errors that do not detract from their overall quality, as long as the historical content used to advance the argument is accurate.
- Clarity: Exam essays should be considered first drafts and thus may contain grammatical errors. Those errors will not be counted against a student unless they obscure the successful demonstration of the content knowledge, skills, and practices described below.

Note: Student samples are quoted verbatim and may contain grammatical errors.

A. Thesis/Claim (0–1 points)

Responses earn one point by responding to the prompt with a historically defensible thesis that establishes a line of reasoning about the topic. To earn this point, the thesis must make a claim that responds to the prompt rather than simply restating or rephrasing the prompt. The thesis must suggest at least one main line of argument development or establish the analytic categories of the argument.

The thesis must consist of one or more sentences located in one place, either in the introduction or the conclusion.

Examples of acceptable theses:

- “The trans-Atlantic exchange of goods bolstered not only the economic system of British North America, but the Spirits of the citizens. The goods brought to the colonies and the opportunity of trade allowed the colonies to begin to prosper and directly affected the eventual development of the United States of America.” (The response suggests a line of argument development.)
- “The trans-atlantic exchange also called the Columbian exchange fathered the culture of the Colonies, giving them the building blocks for a democratic yet oppressive culture.” (The response suggests a line of argument development. The incorrect use of Columbian exchange is a minor error and does not detract from the thesis statement.)
- “The Trans-Atlantic exchange played a massive role in the development of British colonial culture because of how it effected their growth, culture, and eventual independence.” (The response establishes the analytic categories for the argument.)

Examples of unacceptable theses:

- “In the years of 1700 to 1770 the trans-Atlantic exchanges heavily affected colonial culture in British North America.” (This example largely restates the prompt.)
- “In the time period of 1700 to 1770, the trans-Atlantic exchanges greatly affected colonial culture in British North America as the exchange of plants, animals, good, and ideas influenced the rising colonies. The colonies were not only getting consumer goods for the exchanges but they were getting a taste of foreign language, music, dancing, social structure. All of those things influenced the colonial culture.” (This response does not suggest a line of reasoning.)
- “Trans-Atlantic exchanges affected colonial culture in British North America in many ways.” (This example largely restates the prompt.)

B. Contextualization (0–1 points)

Responses earn one point by describing a broader historical context relevant to the topic of the prompt. To earn this point, the response must accurately and explicitly connect the context of the prompt to broader historical events, developments, or processes that occurred before, during, or continued after the time frame of the question. This point is not awarded for merely a phrase or reference.

To earn the point, the response must accurately describe a context relevant to the ways in which trans-Atlantic exchanges affected colonial culture in British North America in the period from 1700 to 1770.

Examples might include the following, with appropriate elaboration:

- Mercantilism and economic ties to Great Britain
- The trans-Atlantic slave trade and the establishment of a social hierarchy (planter aristocracy)
- Spread of Enlightenment and republican ideas
- The First Great Awakening and its effect upon independent thought
- British taxation policies after the French and Indian War influencing revolutionary ideals

Example of acceptable contextualization:

- “Culturally America became more reliant on slaves and the plantation system was introduced. The beginnings of racism towards blacks started with slavery. Culturally Americans did not see slaves as humans. The slavery being introduced now would eventually create huge conflict that would result in a Civil War.” (This example describes one broader historical context relevant to the topic of the prompt.)

Example of unacceptable contextualization:

- “The economies of most British North American colonies depended on farming in the 18th century.” (This example in itself would not earn credit for contextualization because, even though it may be historically accurate, it is not self-evidently relevant to the topic. To earn credit for contextualization, this example would need to describe how the context offered is relevant to the topic.)

C. Evidence (0–2 points)

Evidence

Responses earn one point by providing at least two specific examples of evidence relevant to the topic of the prompt. Responses can earn this point without earning the point for a thesis statement.

These examples of evidence must be different from the information used to earn the point for contextualization. Typically, statements credited as contextualization will be more general statements that place an argument or a significant portion of it in a broader context. Statements credited as evidence will typically be more specific information.

AP[®] UNITED STATES HISTORY

Question 2 — Long-Essay Question (continued)

Examples of evidence used might include:

- Great Awakening (George Whitefield, Jonathan Edwards)
- Navigation Acts extended (Hat Act, Molasses Act, Iron Act)
- Salutary Neglect
- French and Indian War
- Proclamation of 1763
- Pontiac’s Rebellion
- Stamp Act and repeal (Declaratory Act)
- Sugar Act
- Townshend Acts
- Triangular trade
- Cash crops
- Slave trade, Middle Passage (slave rebellions – Stono Rebellion), Black Codes
- Enlightenment effects on colonial thought
- Boston Massacre

Example of acceptably providing evidence relevant to the topic of the prompt

- “Protestant minister George Whitefield was an important leader who participated in the Great Awakening in both England and America.” (This example cites evidence relevant to the topic, so it would count for the first evidence point, but it does not use that evidence to support an argument about how trans-Atlantic exchanges affected United States culture, so it would not earn the second point.)

Example of unacceptably providing evidence relevant to the topic of the prompt

- “Alexander Hamilton convinced George Washington to support France in French wars against Great Britain.” (This response would not earn credit for evidence because it is outside of the time period and historically inaccurate.)

OR

Supports an Argument

Responses earn two points if they support an argument in response to the prompt using specific and relevant examples of evidence.

Example of acceptable use of evidence to support an argument

- “By preaching first in England and then traveling across the Atlantic to America and preaching there, Protestant minister George Whitefield helped transfer religious ideas from Europe to the American colonies and changed American culture.” (This example gives specific historical evidence that supports an argument in response to the prompt.)

Example of unacceptable use of evidence to support an argument

- “Protestant minister George Whitefield was an important leader who participated in the Great Awakening.” (This example cites evidence relevant to the topic, so it would count for the first evidence point, but it does not use that evidence to support an argument about how trans-Atlantic exchanges affected United States culture, so it would not earn the second point.)

D. Analysis and Reasoning (0–2 points)

Historical Reasoning

Responses earn one point by using historical reasoning to frame or structure an argument that addresses the prompt. To earn this point, the response must demonstrate the use of historical reasoning to frame or structure an argument, although the reasoning might be uneven or imbalanced.

Examples of using historical reasoning might include:

- Explaining how the Great Awakening affected colonial culture
- Explaining how the Enlightenment affected colonial culture
- Explaining how commercial exchanges of goods from Britain to the American colonies affected colonial culture
- Explaining how slavery and the slave trade affected colonial culture

Example of acceptable use of historical reasoning:

- “European Enlightenment ideas such as self-rule and the social contract migrated across the Atlantic from Europe to America in the 18th century and helped create the intellectual and cultural basis for the American Revolution.” (This example earns the point for historical reasoning because it highlights movement and a historical change. The use of terms like “migrated” and “helped create” demonstrates change over time.)

Example of unacceptable use of historical reasoning:

- “The Enlightenment was a very important factor in 18th century America.” (This sentence would not earn the point for historical reasoning because the language does not indicate change, continuity, comparison, or causation.)

OR

Complexity

Responses earn two points for demonstrating a complex understanding of the topic, using evidence to corroborate, qualify, or modify that argument.

Demonstrating complex understanding might include:

- Explaining a nuance of an issue by analyzing multiple variables by, for example, examining several colonial regions (changing cultural identities between the regions)
- Explaining multiple causes or explaining both causes and effects, for example, explaining how colonial culture in the British North American colonies exhibited various features of independence and self-governance, while also expressing aspects of loyalty to the British Crown
- Explaining relevant and insightful connections within and across periods, for example, examining the long-term effects of slavery on racial tensions
- Confirming the validity of an argument by corroborating multiple perspectives across themes
- Qualifying or modifying an argument by considering diverse or alternative views or evidence by, for example, explaining how other factors were more important than the trans-Atlantic exchanges in shaping colonial culture
- Explaining the various effects of slavery and the slave trade on the development of regional identities

This understanding must be part of the argument, not merely a phrase or reference.

Example of acceptable demonstration of a complex understanding

- “This brought political power to the South and allowed for the creation of a planters’ aristocracy, This class system, developed primarily in the mid-1700s would go on to rule Dixieland through the 19th century and being a cause of the Civil War.” (This example, through the growth of slavery in the South, demonstrates a complex understanding of the historical development that is the focus of the prompt by making insightful connections across periods.)

Example of unacceptable demonstration of a complex understanding

- “By 1770 most colonists were angry with Great Britain and either wanted them to back or wanted independence from them. This feeling was much like the south’s feelings before the civil war where they felt the north was infringing on their livelihood. They also felt they may thrive if they separated, so they succeeded from the union much like America did from Britain.” (This example attempts to make a connection between the two time periods but provides an inaccurate connection.)

A. Thesis/Claim (0–1 points)

Responses earn one point by responding to the prompt with a historically defensible thesis that establishes a line of reasoning about the topic. To earn this point, the thesis must make a claim that responds to the prompt rather than simply restating or rephrasing the prompt. The thesis must suggest at least one main line of argument development or establish the analytic categories of the argument.

The thesis must consist of one or more sentences located in one place, either in the introduction or the conclusion.

Examples of acceptable theses:

- “Immigration greatly affected culture in the United States from 1840 to 1898 by causing manufacturing to increase, discontent of Americans, and an overall change in the population, especially in cities.” (The response suggests a line of argument development.)
- “This influx of immigration had a significant effect on U.S. culture from 1840-1898 as it caused a reaction in nativist movements, created a new labor force for manufacturing, and ultimately led to the formation of unions.” (The response establishes the analytic categories for the argument.)
- “Immigration in the period 1840 to 1898 led to increased prevalence in United States culture of nativism, discrimination, and racism.” (The response establishes the analytic categories for the argument.)

Example of unacceptable thesis:

- “The most significant way that immigration shaped American culture was the arrival of more people.” (This response is too generic to earn credit as a thesis).
- “Immigration in the period 1840 to 1898 affected United States culture to a large extent.” (This example largely restates the prompt).

B. Contextualization (0–1 points)

Responses earn one point by describing a broader historical context relevant to the topic of the prompt. To earn this point, the response must accurately and explicitly connect the context of the prompt to broader historical events, developments, or processes that occurred before, during, or continued after the time frame of the question. This point is not awarded for merely a phrase or reference.

To earn the point, the response must accurately describe a context relevant to the ways in which immigration affected United States culture in the period from 1840 to 1898.

Examples might include the following, with appropriate elaboration:

- The industrialization of the United States
- Economic opportunity in the United States

Example of acceptable contextualization:

- “The Gilded Age was a time of rapid industrialization that helped attract many immigrants. Because native born Americans looked down on these jobs, Eastern and Southern European immigrants, who arrived with little money, took these unskilled factory jobs and dangerous manufacturing positions in construction and steel. Immigrants in this sector of the labor force increased the wealth and power of the industrial giants, who were protected by the federal government through the lack of regulation.” (This example describes one broader historical context relevant to the topic of the prompt.)

Example of unacceptable contextualization:

- “Political corruption was widespread in the 1880s and 1890s.” (This example in itself would not earn credit for contextualization because, even though it may be historically accurate, it is not self-evidently relevant to the topic. To earn credit for contextualization, this example would need to describe how the context offered is relevant to the topic.)

C. Evidence (0–2 points)

Evidence

Responses earn one point by providing at least two specific examples of evidence relevant to the topic of the prompt. Responses can earn this point without earning the point for a thesis statement.

These examples of evidence must be different from the information used to earn the point for contextualization. Typically, statements credited as contextualization will be more general statements that place an argument or a significant portion of it in a broader context. Statements credited as evidence will typically be more specific information.

Examples of evidence used might include:

- Irish and German immigration, 1840s–1850s
- Southern, eastern, and central European immigration in the late nineteenth century
- Chinese Exclusion Act of 1882
- Know-Nothing Party
- Urban political machines and bosses
- Chinatowns, Little Italy, Germantowns
- Nativism; “no Irish need apply”
- Angel and Ellis Island
- Hull House, 1889
- Jacob Riis
- Transcontinental Railroad

Example of acceptably providing evidence relevant to the topic of the prompt

- “Many Irish people immigrated to the United States in the 1840s and 1850s.” (This example cites evidence relevant to the topic, so it would count towards the first evidence point, but it does not use that evidence to support an argument about how immigration affected United States culture, so it would not count towards the second point.)

Example of unacceptably providing evidence relevant to the topic of the prompt

- “Millions of people came to the United States looking for jobs.” (This response would not earn credit for evidence because it is too vague.)

OR

Supports an Argument

Responses earn two points if they support an argument in response to the prompt using specific and relevant examples of evidence.

Example of acceptable use of evidence to support an argument

- “Large-scale Irish immigration to the United States in the 1840s and 1850s introduced new cultural traditions to the United States and expanded the influence of the Catholic religion. This also prompted nativist antagonism toward Irish immigrants.” (This example connects a piece of evidence—Irish immigration—to a number of cultural trends at the time.)

Example of unacceptable use of evidence to support an argument

D. Analysis and Reasoning (0–2 points)

Historical Reasoning

Responses earn one point by using historical reasoning to frame or structure an argument that addresses the prompt. To earn this point, the response must demonstrate the use of historical reasoning to frame or structure an argument, although the reasoning might be uneven or imbalanced.

Examples of using historical reasoning might include:

- Explaining how immigration fostered the creation of ethnic communities and how ethnic cultures shaped other cultures
- Explaining how immigration contributed to the rise of nativist ideas and nativism
- Explaining how immigration contributed to urbanization and urban challenges
- Explaining how immigration contributed to a working-class culture

Example of acceptable use of historical reasoning:

- “Immigration led to the development of ethnic communities in cities such as the Chinatowns that emerged in New York City and San Francisco.” (This example earns the point for historical reasoning because it highlights a historical change. The use of terms like “development” and “emerged” demonstrates change over time.)

Example of unacceptable use of historical reasoning:

- “Immigration was very important in the late 19th century.” (This sentence would not earn the point for historical reasoning because the language does not indicate change, continuity, comparison, or causation.)

Complexity

Responses earn two points for demonstrating a complex understanding of the topic, using evidence to corroborate, qualify, or modify that argument.

Demonstrating complex understanding might include:

- Explaining a nuance of an issue by analyzing multiple variables by, for example, examining multiple immigrant groups
- Explaining multiple causes or explaining both causes and effects by, for example, explaining how the influence of immigration generated nativist sentiment in the United States, while at the same time creating an increasingly ethnically diverse culture
- Explaining relevant and insightful connections within and across periods by making comparisons with the effects of immigration after 1898
- Confirming the validity of an argument by corroborating multiple perspectives across themes
- Qualifying or modifying an argument by considering diverse or alternative views or evidence by, for example, arguing and explaining how other factors were more important than immigration in shaping United States culture.

This understanding must be part of the argument, not merely a phrase or reference.

Example of acceptable demonstration of a complex understanding

- With additional such examples throughout essay, this example demonstrates a complex understanding through relevant and insightful connections across time periods.
“Because of the changes brought about by immigration, a profound divide between Americans emerged. Many Americans sought to assist and assimilate immigrants through educational and training programs, while others increased participation in discriminatory practices. This division led to progressivism on one side and increased calls for immigration restriction on the other. Despite the efforts of progressives, nativism prevailed through the passage of quotas in the early 20th century and the rise of the Ku Klux Klan’s targeting of immigrants.”

Example of unacceptable demonstration of a complex understanding

Scoring Notes

Introductory notes:

- Except where otherwise noted, each point of these rubrics is earned independently, e.g., a student could earn a point for evidence without earning a point for thesis/claim.
- Accuracy: The components of these rubrics require that students demonstrate historically defensible content knowledge. Given the timed nature of the exam, essays may contain errors that do not detract from their overall quality, as long as the historical content used to advance the argument is accurate.
- Clarity: Exam essays should be considered first drafts and thus may contain grammatical errors. Those errors will not be counted against a student unless they obscure the successful demonstration of the content knowledge, skills, and practices described below.

Note: Student samples are quoted verbatim and may contain grammatical errors.

A. Thesis/Claim (0–1 points)

Responses earn one point by responding to the prompt with a historically defensible thesis that establishes a line of reasoning about the topic. To earn this point, the thesis must make a claim that responds to the prompt rather than simply restating or rephrasing the prompt. The thesis must suggest at least one main line of argument development or establish the analytic categories of the argument.

The thesis must consist of one or more sentences located in one place, either in the introduction or the conclusion.

Examples of acceptable theses:

- “In the period between 1940 to 1970 enormous sustained economic growth had fundamentally changed the culture of the United States in regards to living standards and expectations, who should be able to have access to our democratic society, and what the American lifestyle meant.” (This response is acceptable because it presents a historically defensible thesis that identifies three ways in which sustained economic growth changed American culture.)
- “From 1940 to 1970 the country’s affluence and overall growth forever changed cultural issues regarding civil rights, the role of women, and the lifestyle of Americans.” (This response is acceptable because it presents a historically defensible thesis that establishes a line of reasoning about the topic.)

Example of unacceptable theses:

- “During the time between 1940-1970, America learned to thrive and bring citizens with high benefits to improve society economically and socially.” (This response is unacceptable because it does not make any claim or statement about the impact of sustained economic growth on American culture.)
- “Sustained economic growth greatly affected United States culture from 1940 to 1970.” (This response essentially re-states the question.)

B. Contextualization (0–1 points)

Responses earn one point by describing a broader historical context relevant to the topic of the prompt. To earn this point, the response must accurately and explicitly connect the context of the prompt to broader historical events, developments, or processes that occurred before, during, or continued after the time frame of the question. This point is not awarded for merely a phrase or reference.

To earn the point, the response must accurately describe a context relevant to the ways in which sustained economic growth affected United States culture in the period from 1940 to 1970.

Examples might include the following, with appropriate elaboration:

- Postwar liberalism
- The Cold War
- The Great Depression
- Space Race
- World War II

Example of acceptable contextualization:

- “This occurred within the context of the Cold War as tension kept mounting domestically. Consequently, the American people would turn towards their consumerism and home lives in order to escape the growing fear of the threat that the Soviet Union presented.” (This example describes one broader historical context relevant to the topic of the prompt.)

Example of unacceptable contextualization:

- “Because of WWII, the Great Depression had ended and America emerged economically stable.” (This example in itself would not earn credit for contextualization because, while it mentions the Great Depression as context for the economic growth, it is merely a phrase or a reference.)

C. Evidence (0–2 points)

Responses earn one point by providing at least two specific examples of evidence relevant to the topic of the prompt. Responses can earn this point without earning the point for a thesis statement.

These examples of evidence must be different from the information used to earn the point for contextualization. Typically, statements credited as contextualization will be more general statements that place an argument or a significant portion of it in a broader context. Statements credited as evidence will typically be more specific information.

AP[®] UNITED STATES HISTORY

Question 4 — Long-Essay Question (continued)

Examples of evidence used might include:

- Baby boom
- Great Society
- Levittown
- Sun Belt
- Interstate Highway System
- Suburbanization
- Counterculture – Beatniks - Hippies
- Rock n roll
- Civil Rights movement
- Emergence of distinct teenage youth culture
- American Dream
- Proxy wars
- Women’s rights
- Appliances, cars
- White picket fences
- Advertising in the context of a consumer culture
- “Keeping up with the Joneses”
- Women’s Rights
- Appliances, Cars
- White Picket Fence
- Advertising
- “Keeping up with the Joneses

Example of acceptably providing evidence relevant to the topic of the prompt

- “In the 1950s for the first time a bloated middle class could afford housing in large, tracted suburbs, buy appliances with wages that paid well, and afford to send themselves and their kids to college.” (This response cites evidence – suburbs, appliances, college - relevant to the topic. Because the response to not go on to use the evidence to support its argument, it did not earn the second evidence point.)

Example of unacceptably providing evidence relevant to the topic of the prompt

- “With the help of Woodrow Wilson, the United States brought the unemployment rate back to 2 percent.” (This response would not earn credit for evidence because it is outside of the time period and historically inaccurate.)

OR

Supports an Argument

Responses earn two points if they support an argument in response to the prompt using specific and relevant examples of evidence.

Example of acceptable use of evidence to support an argument

- “Developments in media made possible by a growing economy led to the definition of American culture and the popularization of American culture between 1940 and 1970.” (As part of response that cites the role of television – it says, for example “Soon shows reinforcing the nuclear family and the roles of each person, such as ‘Father Knows Best,’ were on every TV screen - and movies in creating a culture of conformity, this example uses the evidence to support its argument.)

AP[®] UNITED STATES HISTORY

2018 SCORING GUIDELINES

Example of unacceptable use of evidence to support an argument

- “America being financially prosperous at the time created the Berlin Airlift to keep Germany on the democratic side of Cold War aggression.” (This response cites evidence relevant to the topic, so it would count for the first evidence point, but it does not use that evidence to support an argument about changes in United States culture, so it would not earn the second point.)

D. Analysis and Reasoning (0–2 points)

Historical Reasoning

Responses earn one point by using historical reasoning to frame or structure an argument that addresses the prompt. To earn this point, the response must demonstrate the use of historical reasoning to frame or structure an argument, although the reasoning might be uneven or imbalanced.

Examples of using historical reasoning might include:

- Explaining how economic growth contributed to suburban culture
- Explaining how sustained economic growth contributed to popular demands for expanded social or political rights

Example of acceptable use of historical reasoning:

- “Instead of usually living in cities or rurally, a migration to the suburbs started. Modern cars, education and technology made this possible.” (This response earns the point for historical reasoning because it explains causation for a cultural change – growth of suburbs – related to sustained economic growth (1940-1970).)

Example of unacceptable use of historical reasoning:

- “The reason that all of these different cultural changes was as a result from economic prosperity.” (This response would not earn the point for historical reasoning because, while it attempts to identify causation, it does not actually make the connection.)

OR

Complexity

Responses earn two points for demonstrating a complex understanding of the topic, using evidence to corroborate, qualify, or modify that argument.

AP[®] UNITED STATES HISTORY

2018 SCORING GUIDELINES

Demonstrating complex understanding might include:

- Explaining a nuance of an issue by analyzing multiple variables by, for example, exploring racial or ethnic variations in United States culture or by exploring how economic growth affected groups differently
- Explaining multiple causes such as several particular aspects of economic growth or explaining both causes and effects
- Explaining relevant and insightful connections within and across periods such as making comparisons with economic growth in the 1920s
- Confirming the validity of an argument by corroborating multiple perspectives across themes by demonstrating that the development of the counterculture was spurred by a general culture of conformity, itself a product of sustained economic growth
- Qualifying or modifying an argument by considering diverse or alternative views or evidence by, for example, arguing how other factors were more important than sustained economic growth in shaping United States culture in the period 1940 to 1970

This understanding must be part of the argument, not merely a phrase or reference.

Example of acceptable demonstration of a complex understanding

(Part of the argument presented in this response involved how American culture, backed by sustained economic growth, had spread across the world. This example earned the point for complexity because it modifies that argument by recognizing that American culture, even as it was widely embraced abroad, also adopted aspects of other cultures.)

- “As our exposure to cultural exchange increased, the American culture began to adopt other foreign cultures, such as Japanese media and European clothing brands and food and music, which only served to further enrich our culture.”

Example of unacceptable demonstration of a complex understanding

(This response is unacceptable because, while it attempts to explain nuance on the issue of conformity, it attributes the cause incorrectly.)

- “The jobs were similar, and so were the hours, making most American families fall into with each other.”

The College Board

The College Board is a mission-driven not-for-profit organization that connects students to college success and opportunity. Founded in 1900, the College Board was created to expand access to higher education. Today, the membership association is made up of over 6,000 of the world's leading educational institutions and is dedicated to promoting excellence and equity in education. Each year, the College Board helps more than seven million students prepare for a successful transition to college through programs and services in college readiness and college success — including the SAT[®] and the Advanced Placement Program[®]. The organization also serves the education community through research and advocacy on behalf of students, educators, and schools. The College Board is committed to the principles of excellence and equity, and that commitment is embodied in all of its programs, services, activities, and concerns.
